

Kicking Cancer's Ass ~ The truth will set you free

Even letting alone the spiritual connotations inherent in the headline of this month's segment, there is simple yet awesome power in the words, "the truth will set you free," that can break through human walls of fear, confusion and division, if we care to harness that power.

When I was in college I was told one of the basic tenets of journalism was searching for the truth. Now over a decade since graduating I continue to find that too many reporters share a common trait with too many who have graduated from medical schools. Certain basic tenets seem to be too selectively adhered to when certain topics are involved. The truth, and healing, be damned.

This is the case with cancer. It is an attitude that my heart disallows me from understanding. Because it is, in all ways, an attitude planted, nurtured, bred and controlled by fear.

I am disgusted at watching news clowns endlessly parade fund-raising clips over the airwaves for numerous cancer "societies" in hopes that a cancer cure can someday be discovered when in reality that someday was yesterday.

People are throwing their money, their hopes and their faith at organizations that have suppressed the truth in order to "discover" a cure! Please help me back onto my chair. Human stupidity has sent me reeling.

Anyone who has been following this series has learned that cures for cancer have existed, do exist and will always exist. But it has also been documented here what happens to the truth when truth threatens profits and power. It has essentially become a typical human game in which those who worship false gods over love and truth have brainwashed themselves into believing they are high and mighty because they have been able to brainwash the masses to buy into their false definition of what high and mighty actually means.

Just like the two major political parties, which have enacted law after law after law to further embed themselves in power while ousting any possible competition, the medical and media establishments have done the same, with government cooperation, at the expense of love and truth, at the expense of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and at the expense of freedom and genuine healing.

The good news is that some people do still care about such things as love and truth, and in realizing the eternal implications and the inherent rewards involved, they see it as no sacrifice to spend their human days embracing a desire for genuine solutions to problems and threats concocted by lowlife humans in high human places.

Three recent additions to my medical/media library reflect this good news and I am urging all sincere readers and thinkers to get a hold of these works and use them as further instruments to guide them to the truth about cancer and to help us all to help each other to kick cancer's ass.

When Healing Becomes a Crime: The Amazing Story of the Hoxsey Cancer Clinics and the Return of Alternative Therapies, by Kenny Ausubel, Healing Arts Press, 2000 ~ Hoxsey has been covered previously in this Active Voice series and was featured in Part Eleven. This new work on an amazing story of healing and suppression and politics will help bring the truth about Hoxsey out of the cobwebs of history and back onto the playing field of justice where it belongs. Those who wish to see my previous words on Hoxsey can follow the request instructions adjoining this article. But a more important, more powerful and more eloquent summary comes on the back of this new book.

Harry Hoxsey claimed to cure cancer using herbal remedies, and thousands of patients swore that he healed them. His Texas clinic became the world's largest privately owned cancer center with branches in seventeen states, and the value of its therapeutic treatments was upheld by two federal courts. Even his arch-nemesis, the AMA, admitted his treatment was effective against some forms of cancer. But the medical establishment refused an investigation, branding Hoxsey the worst cancer quack of the century and forcing his clinic to Tijuana, Mexico, where it continues to claim very high success rates. Modern laboratory tests have confirmed the anticancer properties of Hoxsey's herbs, and a federal government-sponsored report is now calling for a major reconsideration of the Hoxsey therapy.

"When Healing Becomes a Crime" exposes the overall failure of the War on Cancer, while revealing how yesterday's "unorthodox" treatments are emerging as tomorrow's medicine. It probes other promising unconventional cancer treatments that have also been condemned without investigation, delving deeply into the corrosive medical politics and powerful economic forces behind this suppression. As alternative medicine finally regains its rightful place in mainstream practice, this compelling book will not only forever change the way you see medicine, but could also save your life.

The Cancer Industry: The Classic Expose on the Cancer Establishment, by Ralph W. Moss, PhD, Equinox Press, Inc., 1999 ~ This is a classic updated edition of a brave research project begun in 1980 by Ralph Moss, who has written a number of other books on cancer and health. You will grow disturbed and angry by reading it, but to help urge you to read it I again use the more forceful words of others rather than my own. The following quotes appear on the back of the book and the attributions only make it seem all the stranger why the information involved is not getting wider and more expanded airplay from national media channels.

"Everyone should know that the war on cancer is largely a fraud" - Linus Pauling.

"Moss brings heavy guns to bear against the cancer establishment... He carefully cites sources as he assembles documentation that adds up to a blistering attack." - Publishers Weekly,

"An enlightening account of the repressive efforts that exist in the cancer establishment... Moss's assessments are startling in their revelations of irresponsibility and duplicity." - Choice,

"One of the most revealing books ever published on the futility, ineptitude and money-waste of cancer research and the consequent human suffering and death." - Health Freedom News.

Censored 2001: 25th Anniversary Edition featuring 25 Years of Censored News and the Top Censored Stories of the Year, by Peter Phillips & Project Censored, Seven Stories Press, 2001 ~ The title is pretty much self explanatory of what this book is all about. The reader will get more than just stories on suppression of health information and medicinal matters. Project Censored has been mentioned previously in this series. The work and the aim of this group, of searching out and selecting stories of vast import and impact that the national press ignores, censors or twists to its liking, reflects what I believe to be the greatest danger in existence to the philosophies this nation was founded on. Our freedom, in every way, depends upon caring about, searching for, recognizing and loving the truth.

In previous segments:

Especially for those who have been told to go home and die by self-annointed omnipotent medical experts, or who have loved ones being told there is no hope to become healthy again, Active Voice Publisher Ron McEntee began his series on cancer and health and healing:

"...One thing I do believe with all my heart is that fear is itself afraid of love. Fear will run from love because it will be destroyed by it. And the first step of being destroyed by cancer is to allow fear to pervade rather than love, and to allow hope to be exterminated rather than nurtured so that it can blossom and grow and bear fruit and heal..."

Part Two of "Kicking Cancer's Ass" included McEntee's emphasis on "The power within" along with a story concerning the history of Essiac called "Ojibwa Herbal Tea: Indian myth or healing remedy?"

In Part Three, "Christine's story" was told, a powerful first-person narrative detailing one teenager's bout with cancer, her subsequent victory, and her message to fellow cancer fighters.

In Part Four, "Let the healing begin," McEntee re-aired his previously published reference guide, "Here's to Your Health," for those wishing to begin a self-study into little publicized natural medicinal methods. Reference contacts were shared as well as an urge for people, especially in matters of health and healing, to "always believe in yourself. Believe in your own abilities to love and to be loved, to care and to be cared for, and to search for and draw your own judgements about the truth."

Part Five featured "Caring about curing cancer," a response to this series from an Active Voice reader.

Part Six focused on a "miracle" herb called pau d'arco and its abilities and history of fighting cancer.

Part Seven talked about media and medical monopolies and the dangerous interplay between the two. It also mentioned the names of herbalist Dr. John R. Christopher, scientist Royal Raymond Rife, and "unqualified" healer Harry Hoxsey, whose suppressed healing success stories should and shall be told.

Part Eight talked again of Christopher and offered feedback from readers on pau d'arco and suppressed healing methods.

In Part Nine, Bob Houchins of Port Charlotte, Florida narrated the story of Royal Raymond Rife, "one of the most fascinating and horrifying tales ever told." Rife was an American scientist who discovered a method and created an instrument that cured cancer in the 1930s. His reward was similar to that given to anyone who attempts to put genuine healing and caring over money and power. Both he and his answers to the cancer problem were driven underground.

Part Ten highlighted and urged self studies of herbal healers Dr. John R.

Christopher and Dr. Richard Schulze and the Sam Biser Save Your Life Herbal Video Collection

Part Eleven told the amazing story of Harry Hoxsey, who took a handed-down herbal remedy and opened up his first cancer clinic in Illinois in 1924. By the 1950s Hoxsey had clinics in 17 states, but by 1963 the medical establishment and friends in government finally forced him to take his services to Mexico, where Americans who know about it still journey to rid themselves of cancer.

Part Twelve covered "The Legacy of Edgar Cayce." Emphasis was placed on "the father of holistic medicine's" mind/body/spirit philosophies and information was shared about related Cayce readings, Cayce health products, and Cayce's Association of Research and Enlightenment, Inc.

Part Thirteen, a submission from an Active Voice reader, was a discussion and testimonial involving "Natural Hygiene," also referred to as "Life Science," a health system that teaches how to live in harmony with nature and our biological makeup.

Part Fourteen offered testimony from a former officer of Cancer Victims Anonymous and railed against the strangle-hold the AMA and FDA and others have upon consumer choices in medicine.

Part Fifteen, written by long-time Active Voice reader and medical researcher Thomas W. Lippitt, covered "The battles beyond the war: A history of suppressed cures & healings."

Part Sixteen told the story of German-born doctor Max Gerson's method's of successfully curing cancer, as well as his battle against dictators ~ a famous one in Europe named Hitler and a secret one in America still thriving today.

Part Seventeen introduced the latest "alternative" in cancer therapies. Nanuropath Thomas W. Lippitt discussed coral calcium and ellagic acid and offered numerous references for readers to research on their own.

In Part Eighteen Thomas W. Lippitt offered the latest from his own cancer curing research library in an article titled "Oxygen and Organic Calcium." Lippitt also shared an adjoining health piece called "The vaccination epidemic."

Future segments will cover more censored healers and suppressed information. Also included here will be your stories, comments and questions. Please take part and join a genuine effort to let the healing begin.

A Revolutionary Idea!

Dr. Benjamin Rush, co-signer of the Declaration of Independence and Revolutionary War hero, issued an astounding prophesy over 200 years ago:

"Unless we put medical freedom into the Constitution, the time will come when medicine will organize itself into an undercover dictatorship. To restrict the art of healing to one class of men and deny equal privileges to others will constitute the Bastille of medical science. All such laws are un-American and despotic."

Today while we sleep the medical "dictatorship" in Rush's vision thrives. Politicians and "the people" are debating loudly over health care coverage and methods and strategies involved, but no one is getting to the root of the problem. And that root is in our hearts, where fear has overtaken love, and where truth has given way to deception and people are too often putting their hopes and dreams and very lives into the hands of establishments and self-annointed gods who do more punishing than curing.

~ Ron McEntee, Publisher

Why are we cheering politicians promising prescriptions?

Al Gore and George W. Bush, painted by the centralized media as our only two choices in the most recent presidential election, were not surprisingly vying for votes by promising to "give" the people something they don't need; something the people should be in charge of themselves; yet still something the blind masses won't stop whooping and clapping about. Those who wish to still think for themselves and also control their own health should do some checking up on prescription pills, the drug industry, and interaction between the powerful in medicine, the media and the government. Simply start by studying books which list the endless side effects and dangerous interactions of the very prescription drugs your favorite politicians would like to let you buy for others with your money. It's hard to believe "We the People" have become this dumb. In essence we are allowing questionably financed political party puppets to promise to allow us to poison one another with our own tax dollars. And "watchdogs" from "the free press" lie eerily silent.

~ Ron McEntee, Publisher

In restaurants, coffee shops, taverns and salons; in the workplace and halls of higher learning, the conversations go on amongst "We the People." We wonder who tells the truth anymore, who we can trust, and who performs in their profession because they care or because they seek riches and prestige. Month after month for 13 years this newspaper has been sounding the voice of "the people" like no other newspaper in existence, bringing unadorned, unedited free and open communication. The survival of Active Voice, like the survival of the ideals and principles this country was founded on, depends upon the vigilance, intelligence, awareness and support of "the people."
