

Kicking Cancer's Ass ~ Spiritual Tuning: Tapping into the frequency of herbs and life's essence

In the course of compiling this guide toward kicking cancer's ass I continue to find material new to me that reinforces the main theme, that cancer's ass can indeed be kicked. It has been kicked, it is being kicked and it ultimately will always be kicked when the players involved open their hearts, minds and souls beyond the realm of what we have accepted to be normal.

I also continue to find, over and over again, new materials that also support theories, histories and truths that have aired previously in this series. In this chapter I wish to share with you another addition to my own health and healing library. Within this work are explanations both on scientific and spiritual levels that further solidify the foundation of this series and this newspaper is based upon. With love anything is indeed possible, if we care enough to communicate inwardly and outwardly in order to reach understandings, and in so doing, to further evolve through empowering self, others and love itself.

Healing, ultimately, has nothing to do with money.

In the beginning of this work I offered my own natural feelings and thoughts pertaining to the most crucial elements involved in healing and in kicking cancer's ass: Love, faith, true belief ~ genuinely positive vibrations. There are spiritual laws, natural laws, which are beyond the grasp of most people only because people choose to place them beyond their grasp. Our own priorities dictate who we are and what we become.

We have been anesthetized into a robotic stupor, in which we say we believe in love and a better world, while at the same time we are running willy nilly to accumulate material luxuries, ascend career ladders, yearn for prestige and trophies, and search for instant gratification.

Love is put on the backburner, by our own choice, and we then wonder why love isn't dominating the world. But surely there will come a time in every soul's evolution when it will be realized that the bedrock of eternity is not based on getting Tiger Woods' autograph or believing Oprah Winfrey is a saint or comparing bank accounts, friends in high places, or tally sheets on getting drunk, getting high and getting laid.

An amazing book came into my possession recently in which the vibratory properties of God's natural offerings are discussed. The Spiritual Properties of Herbs (1988), by Gurudas (Cassandra Press, San Rafael, California), ties together scientific theory, for those who insist upon it, to universal laws.

For those brainwashed by modern man's claims that we are some sort of collective of intellectual giants, achieving technological breakthroughs previously unheard of, this book is a wakeup call.

For those who believe in God and who race to man-erected churches in order to worship while also believing that God's own gifts, herbs and elements from the earth, are nonsense as they pertain to love and healing, this book is a nice new seed to be held, planted and nurtured.

Even for those who grow, sell and talk about herbs for a living will benefit in the best of ways from this book. For herbs and elements from within the earth, as well as elements in the sun and the sky itself, which also make up the elements of our own shells, have been in existence, healing and acting as part of the natural evolution of life and love long before humans began creating certificates and calling themselves experts in all fields.

In his book Gurudas offers detailed descriptions of the spiritual effects that over 100 specific herbs have on people. This information alone is enough to support the real contention that cancer's ass can be kicked and a human body can be healed without intrusive methods and barbaric procedures concocted by man; procedures that have been backed by big money, taught thanks to wealthy and powerful "philanthropic" donations to medical schools, and endorsed, in part as payback, by man's powerfully established, self-appointed expert elites.

For those interested in expanding their learning about herbs towards more historic, "mythical" and spiritual levels, Gurudas offers chapters on the use of herbs in Atlantis, Lemuria, Ancient Egypt and China, and explains how divine principles were both pre-existent and purposefully incorporated in plants and crystals, as part of the natural essence of love energy and in love's evolution.

This is a book that goes beyond religion but also encompasses all religion, no matter what entity one worships or believes in or is bred to cling to. For whatever you believe or whatever you choose to worship or not worship, we are all made of the same elements, we all breathe the same air, we all receive rays from the same sun, and we are all a part of and play a role in life energy. It is not a "new wave" concept or a contradiction to any religious label that people may feel a need to hoist upon themselves for security purposes. It is both a scientific and layman's explanation of what the importance really is pertaining to herbs, gemstones, flower essences, homeopathic healing, animal life, mankind and love energy. It ultimately concerns us all. It boils down to the essence of what we are.

As both a meaningful teaser, in hopes that interested readers will obtain the book for themselves, and as a simple reflection to my own statements above, I would like to share the following passages from the chapter in The Spiritual Properties of Herbs entitled, "Thought Forms and Etheric Density":

"... The ethers are the ever fine inter-connecting substance that connects all beings on all levels in all ways in the universe. It is not a substance that exists in three dimensions the way people normally perceive the three dimensions. This interconnectedness on many levels allows the transfer of vibrations. But it does not allow this transfer in the usual sense of either energy or matter as you perceive it, but it is a way in which waves are set up in this medium.

"The movement of the ethers takes place from many sources including physical motion, magnetism, electricity, and thought. It acts as the conducting substance by which telepathy takes place. People's thoughts influence the ethers. Thus, if thoughts are of a positive nature, vibrations in the ethers will normally be uplifting and helpful. If your thoughts relate to power over others, willingness to cause harm, various negative states, or even just adherence to ignorance, such vibrations also set up wave patterns in the ethers. These create densified patches in the ethers in localities where these negative thought forms readily occur. In places where there have been wars or great difficulty, some of these etheric vibrations still remain. It is because of this that historians sometimes experience these things and have difficulty being in such places. Some people get physically ill when visiting a concentration camp partly because of this problem. The etheric density over the entire planet has reached such a state that mankind now has a continuing difficulty with negative thought forms. This influences most people today.

"Etheric density developed because of negative thought form pollution. Unfortunately, much of this thought pollution is largely unconscious so people are not aware of it. If mankind still had etheric sight, etheric density and negative thought forms would be far less of a problem. Individuals are usually not aware that the thoughts they create such as their anguishes and worries, the energy associated with these negative vibrational states has no place to go. It simply surrounds them, and gradually the constant expression of such energies co-creates a foundation vibration. This interlinking vibration between many beings all over the planet full of worry, fear, guilt, and other negative states is a receptor mechanism by which energies of a more powerful nature can remain rooted.

"In recent years it has become increasingly understood that the emotions play a key role in causing and even curing diseases. Visualization exercises are now used with cancer as part of the treatment. Understanding the deep role that negative thought forms play in our lives is an extension of appreciating the role that the emotions play in health and disease.

"On the planet in the past there have, of course, been beings who have been greedy, full of hatred, and misguided in various ways. But the loving response of the general population to these individuals

In previous segments:

Especially for those who have been told to go home and die by self-anointed omnipotent medical experts, or who have loved ones being told there is no hope to become healthy again, Active Voice Publisher Ron McEntee began his series on cancer and health and healing:

"...One thing I do believe with all my heart is that fear is itself afraid of love. Fear will run from love because it will be destroyed by it. And the first step of being destroyed by cancer is to allow fear to pervade rather than love, and to allow hope to be exterminated rather than nurtured so that it can blossom and grow and bear fruit and heal..."

Part Two of "Kicking Cancer's Ass" included McEntee's emphasis on "The power within" along with a story concerning the history of Essiac called "Ojibwa Herbal Tea: Indian myth or healing remedy?"

In Part Three, "Christine's story" was told, a powerful first-person narrative detailing one teenager's bout with cancer, her subsequent victory, and her message to fellow cancer fighters.

In Part Four, "Let the healing begin," McEntee re-aired his previously published reference guide, "Here's to Your Health," for those wishing to begin a self-study into little publicized natural medicinal methods. Reference contacts were shared as well as an urge for people, especially in matters of health and healing, to "always believe in yourself. Believe in your own abilities to love and to be loved, to care and to be cared for, and to search for and draw your own judgements about the truth."

Part Five featured "Caring about curing cancer," a response to this series from an Active Voice reader.

Part Six focused on a "miracle" herb called pau d'arco and its abilities and history of fighting cancer.

Part Seven talked about media and medical monopolies and the dangerous interplay between the two. It also mentioned the names of herbalist Dr. John R. Christopher, scientist Royal Raymond Rife, and "unqualified" healer Harry Hoxsey, whose suppressed healing success stories should and shall be told.

Part Eight talked again of Christopher and offered feedback from readers on pau d'arco and suppressed healing methods.

In Part Nine, Bob Houchins of Port Charlotte, Florida narrated the story of Royal Raymond Rife, "one of the most fascinating and horrifying tales ever told." Rife was an American scientist who discovered a method and created an instrument that cured cancer in the 1930s. His reward was similar to that given to anyone who attempts to put genuine healing and caring over money and power. Both he and his answers to the cancer problem were driven underground.

Part Ten highlighted and urged self studies of herbal healers Dr. John R. Christopher and Dr. Richard Schulze and the Sam Biser Save Your Life Herbal Video Collection.

Part Eleven told the amazing story of Harry Hoxsey, who took a handed-down herbal remedy and opened up his first cancer clinic in Illinois in 1924. By the 1950s Hoxsey had clinics in 17 states, but by 1963 the medical establishment and friends in government finally forced him to take his services to Mexico, where Americans who know about it still journey to rid themselves of cancer.

Part Twelve covered "The Legacy of Edgar Cayce." Emphasis was placed on "the father of holistic medicine's 'mind/body/spirit' philosophies and information was shared about related Cayce readings," Cayce health products, and Cayce's Association of Research and Enlightenment, Inc.

Part Thirteen, a submission from an Active Voice reader, was a discussion and testimonial involving "Natural Hygiene," also referred to as "Life Science," a health system that teaches how to live in harmony with nature and our biological makeup.

Part Fourteen offered testimony from a former officer of Cancer Victims Anonymous and railed against the strangle-hold the AMA and FDA and others have upon consumer choices in medicine.

Part Fifteen, written by long-time Active Voice reader and medical researcher Thomas W. Lippitt, covered "The battles beyond the war: A history of suppressed cures & healings."

Part Sixteen told the story of German-born doctor Max Gerson's method's of successfully curing cancer, as well as his battle against dictators -- a famous one in Europe named Hitler and a secret one in America still thriving today.

Part Seventeen introduced the latest "alternative" in cancer therapies. Naturopath Thomas W. Lippitt discussed coral calcium and ellagic acid and offered numerous references for readers to research on their own.

In Part Eighteen Thomas W. Lippitt offered the latest from his own cancer curing research library in an article titled "Oxygen and Organic Calcium." Lippitt also shared an adjoining health piece called "The vaccination epidemic."

Part Nineteen, "The truth will set you free," recommended three books for readers interested in arming themselves with information to help them reach their own conclusions about politics, cancer and healing.

Part Twenty, "Arm Yourself," offered more book titles and information for those who care arm themselves with knowledge and options rather than depending upon biased and questionable practitioners and 'experts.'

Part Twenty-One highlighted red clover's role as a long-time leading herbal ally in the fight against cancer.

Part Twenty-Two, "The war against curing cancer: When quacks cry 'Quack-ery!'" focused mainly on Barry Lynes' book, The Healing of Cancer: The Cures - the Cover-ups and the Solution Now! (1989) and the unholy state of powerful entities that actually do more to thrive on cancer than they do to cure it.

Part Twenty-Three returned to the herbal field for more strong batches of red clover, offering further testimony to its curative abilities.
